DETAILED ACTION

Applicant's reply dated 12/05/2008 is noted. Applicant's amendments to the claims dated 12/05/2008 and Remarks dated 07/14/2008 are considered.

Claims 1-48 are pending. Claims 1-10,23,25-34 and 47 are withdrawn. Claims 11-22,24,35-46 and 48 are under examination in the instant office action.

Claims 35-46 and 48 are examined only to the extent that they read on the elected invention, specifically methods involving invertebrates. Thus, the examined subject matter of claims 35-46 and 48 is the same as that of claims 11-22 and 24. Claims should be limited to the elected subject matter prior to allowance of the elected invention.

Priority

The certified copy of the DE 10251918.8 application was received 07/14/2008.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112-1st paragraph

The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

Claims 11-22,24, 35-46 and 48 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, because the specification, while being enabling for a method of integrating a heritable integration of a transgene into the genome of a somatic or germ line cell of an invertebrate organism said method comprising, i) integrating a first acceptor DNA cassette into said genome by transposase-mediated integration of a first vector wherein the first vector comprises said first acceptor DNA cassette flanked on each end by first and second transposon half sides and wherein said first DNA cassette comprises heterospecific site-specific recombinase target sites flanking each end of a first marker gene and ii) exchanging said first acceptor DNA cassette for a second donor DNA cassette by recombinase-mediated site-specific recombination using a second vector comprising a second DNA cassette comprising heterospecific site-specific recombinase target sites flanking each end of an internal transposon half side followed by a second marker gene wherein upon site-specific recombinase mediated recombination, said internal transposon half side and a first flanking half side form a pair of excisable transposon halvesides, does not reasonably provide enablement for any second donor vector. The specification does not enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention commensurate in scope with these claims.

Applicant's amendments and remarks are noted but are not fully persuasive. Applicant's amendments do address the rejection in part. However, certain aspects of the structures claimed remain broad. The claim does not require that the recombinase target sites of the donor cassette be homospecific to those of the acceptor sites. Thus, the claims encompass having four different recombinase targets that do not recombine with one another. The claims do not require the recombinase target sites flank the internal transposon half side. The claims also fail to require that the internal transposon half side be such that excision with one of the flanking Tn half-sides can occur. Finally, as noted in the previous office action dated 04/11/2008, the method, as claimed, fails to 'target' an integration into the genome because the acceptor DNA is randomly integrated and the claims lack a step of identifying a selecting an integration site as a desired target. While the nature of the marker genes or additional DNA is not essential to the invention, the orientation and identity of the Tn and recombinase target sites must be clarified and specified. As well, the placement of various elements either between flanking Tn half sides or recombinase targets should be clearly recited. Method steps essential to the invention must also be included as set forth in the rejection dated 04/11/2008.

The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

Claims 21 and 45 remain rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claims 21 and 45 remain unclear because, as amended, it is not clear if the operable promoter of line 4 is the same as that now recited in line 2.

Conclusion

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
